Commodore Builders Ranks 59th Amongst Boston Business Journal's List of Top 100 Largest Private Companies in Massachusetts

List Ranks Area's Largest Privately Held Companies, based on 2007 Revenues

(Newton, MA)—Nov. 6, 2008—Commodore Builders announced today that it has ranked 59th on a list of the “Area’s Top 100 Largest Private Companies,” published annually by The Boston Business Journal (BBJ). The list, published in the October 24th issue of the BBJ, recognizes Commodore’s impressive 2007 revenues, and growing team of 247 employees.

“It is quite an honor to be recognized as one of the region’s largest privately held companies,” said Joe Albanese, founder and CEO of Commodore Builders. “We believe that our continued growth and revenue success in 2007 results from our employees’ ongoing commitment to providing excellence.”

Albanese founded Commodore Builders six years ago, directing his company’s mission towards innovation, sustainability, and a take charge attitude that has resulted in record growth over the last three years, with 2007 revenues exceeding $70 million.

This is Commodore’s first year appearing on the BBJ’s Top 100 list of private area companies. However, the firm recently received the publication’s Pacesetters Award. The honor recognized Commodore’s skill in managing a rapidly growing company, showing robust revenues from 2004-2007, and creating business strategies that led to success in a competitive business environment.

This year, Commodore also ranked 2,139 on Inc. Magazine’s list of 5,000 fastest growing private companies in America.

“We have always positioned the company to grow smart and steady, said Albanese. “In doing so, we have managed to build a solid niche in the construction management industry, and ultimately impact the company’s bottom-line growth,” said Albanese.
